ANN BARBER.

Newport, 3d Nov. 1800.

KINE, or COW-POX.

The subscribers having been furnished by Dr. BENJAMIN WATERHOUSE, of Cambridge (Massachusetts) with the means of inoculating for the KINE, or COW-POX, within the county of Bristol, State of Rhode-Island; hereby give notice, that they shall immediately commence inoculation for said distemper in the towns of Bristol and Warren. It being established by numerous experiments that this disorder is much milder and safer than the Small-Pox, (more than sixty thousand having gone through it in England, and no one died of it) that it effectually secures the human constitution from ever being susceptible of the Small-Pox, and that it may be taken with the utmost safety in private families, as one person cannot take it from another, even by sleeping in the same bed.

They flatter themselves that few will neglect so good an opportunity, of securing themselves from the ravages of that terrible distemper, the Small-Pox.—Their terms will be moderate; they will attend families in any part of the county; and to those who may not wish to take it in their own families, they will furnish boarding and lodging in Bristol or Warren, on easy terms.

Any person wishing to see a history of the disease, and an account of the experiment, both in England and America, may have the perusal of Dr. Waterhouse's Pamphlet, by calling, at Bristol or Warren, on either of the subscribers,

LUTHER A. CROSSMAN,
WILLIAM THOMPSON.

October 31, 1800.

Doctor BARTLETT

Inform his Friends and the Public,

That he has prepared himself for the inoculation of the COW-POX—and will be ready to attend any person that may wish his assistance.—The advantages arising from this treatment are manifold—it being attended with no danger or violence of symptoms—and has been sufficiently proven to be a complete preventive of the Small-Pox.—Patients who have had the Kine-Pox by inoculation (and it cannot be taken otherwise) although afterwards inoculated with the Small-Pox, or exposed to it when in its most violent stage—have felt no effects from the latter.

Newport, August 26, 1800.

By the ship Swift, Capt. Rogers in 31 days from Liverpool arrived here on Friday last, we have received London Papers to the 4th of October from which are extracted the following articles of
FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

L O N D O N, O C T. 2.

From the Paris papers.

ACTS OF GOVERNMENT.

Decree of the 2d Vendémiaire, (24th Sept.)
Bonaparte, first Consul of the Republic, decrees as follows:

Art. 1. The general of division Clarke is nominated commandant extraordinary of Lunéville, and of the whole department of La Meurthe.

Art. 2. He shall correspond directly as the above commandant with the government.

Art. 3. He shall take such measures as shall enable the telegraphs to correspond with Lunéville.

Art. 4. General Clarke shall repair immediately to Lunéville, and take every measure necessary to the holding of a Congress.

Art. 5. The minister of war, is charged with the execution of the present decree.

the first Consul,
(Signed) BUONAPARTE.
the Secretary of State,
(Signed) H. B. MARET.

Paris Papers of one day later date, arrived last night by a French flag of truce, which brought also dispatches for Government. We understand that the British flag of truce, which arrived at Dover on Tuesday night, did not bring the answer of the Chief Consul. It was brought by the vessel which arrived yesterday morning.

With the demands made by France, the conditions upon which our Ministers have offered to grant an Armistice, and the reply returned by the French Government, we are unacquainted. The answer has not yet transpired.

The Paris Papers contains no article of any importance, except the decree by which Gen. Clarke is directed to repair to Lunéville, to make the necessary preparations for the Congress.

One-Hamburg Mail, which was due on Sunday, arrived this morning. It could not bring any intelligence of so late a date, as that contained in the Paris Papers. The Emperor, on the day after his arrival at headquarters, issued General Orders, informing the troops, that the chief command had been conferred on the Archduke John. He repeats his assertion, that he has used every endeavour to procure peace, and he declares, that if hostilities recommence, he will employ all the means in his power, to protect his hereditary states and people.

The Archduke John is to keep the command till the Archduke Charles's health is sufficiently re-established.

Field-Marshal Colloredo is appointed President of the Aulic Council of War at Vienna; and General Mack: Affector.

O C T O B E R 4.

It is whispered, that the first Consul has demanded as a foundation of a naval armistice, and as the price of our admission to the grand diplomatic display which is to take place at Lunéville, and at the same time to serve as a proof of the sincerity of Ministers, that this country shall put the French Republic in possession of twenty British ships of the line!!!

B A V A R I A, Sept. 26.

On the 26th, the whole Austrian army was in motion towards Haag and Wasserburg, and his Imperial Majesty had resolved to remove on the 9th his headquarters to Haag, and after battle to the enemy, immediately on the expiration of the armistice; when in the night, between the 8th and 9th inst. a courier arrived from Gen. Moreau, who brought his acceptance of the proffered prolongation of the armistice.

P A R I S, Sept. 18.

We know not whether the British Cabinet will accept the conditions which the French Government has wisely proposed to it, and we doubt whether it be proper to desire, that envoys from England should assist at the congress. But after the formidable position of our army, and the deplorable state in which the Emperor sees his own army, we should be much disappointed if the result of the congress was not a speedy pacification between the French Republic and his Imperial Majesty.

They write from Wesel, that the changes and movements which were to have taken place in the Prussian army of observation, destined to make the line of neutrality respected are still subject to fresh orders which they expect from Berlin, and which are speedily looked for. At any rate, it is certain that none of the regiments which assisted at the grand manoeuvres in Silesia, before the King, have put themselves in motion for Westphalia, as several Journals have announced. Every thing is perfectly quiet in the Prussian Army, which point out more than ever the pacific intentions of the young Monarch.

B O S T O N, Nov. 7.
FROM LISBON.

Captain Young, arrived from Lisbon, in 21 days, acquaints us, that the Portuguese still entertain strong apprehensions of an invasion by the French through Spain. A large Spanish army was upon the frontiers of Portugal, which it was feared would cooperate; but the Spaniards have been lately laid under an obligation by their neighbours who have captured several valuable Spanish vessels at Lisbon;—That the British expedition sent under Sir J. Pakeney were at Gibraltar; and it was supposed would proceed to Portugal if that nation should require assistance.

Capt. Ellery, from Malaga, and who passed Cape St. Vincent, only 19 days before his arrival, informs, that a large English fleet from Gibraltar passed up the Straights about the time he came out.

We have just received a Halifax paper of Nov. 1, which contains the following articles brought by the British Packet, 19 days from Falmouth.

PARIS, October 1.

A treaty of friendship and commerce between the French Republic and the United States of America, was signed yesterday by the French ministers plenipotentiary Joseph Buonaparte, C. P. Claret Fleuriel, and Roderer, and the American commissioners Oliver Ellsworth, W. Davis, and W. Murray.

O C T O B E R 4.

The news of a treaty of alliance between the French Republic and the United States, which was yesterday circulated as doubtful, is now confirmed, and consoles us for the loss of Malta, which is now out of doubt.

On the 27th at midnight the citizens Joseph Buonaparte, Fleuriel, and Roderer Plenipotentiary ministers of the French republic, on the one part, and Messrs. Ellsworth, Davis and Murray, ministers plenipotentiary of the United States, on the other, signed in this city, a treaty, which re-establishes amity and commerce between France and the United States of America. It was a less matter of concern to come to an understanding on the past, than to revive between the two nations connections at once useful and honorable for both: the treaty effects this object.

S U M M A R Y.

It is said, that the Emperor of Germany has signed the preliminaries of peace.—Joseph Buonaparte is the French Minister at the Congress of Lunéville, to be assisted by Gen. Clarke.—The British and French have not yet concluded a naval armistice; but the conference on that subject continues.—It is said the French army for the invasion of Portugal, is on its march.—The embargo on English vessels is taken off in Russia.—Lord Keith with 25000 troops is gone either to Naples or Egypt.—A British Minister has had some particular conferences with the court of Sweden, in consequence of the preparations for war by the latter.—The British ship Stag has been lost in Vigo bay.

The Halifax Captain reports that an English Squadron have got 7 sail of the line out of L'Orient roads.

State of Rhode-Island and Providence Plantations.

IN GENERAL ASSEMBLY, Nov. 1, 1800.
IT IS RESOLVED,

THAT Thursday, the twenty-seventh day of November inst. be, and the same is hereby appointed and set apart as a DAY OF PUBLIC THANKSGIVING AND PRAISE to ALMIGHTY GOD; and that it be recommended to the people to assemble themselves on that day, at their usual places of public worship, publicly and solemnly to offer up their praises and thanksgivings to Almighty God, that He has again stayed the calamity of a destroying pestilence, with which it has pleased Him, in His Providence, to afflict the people of the United States; to acknowledge with gratitude the peculiar blessings with which the nation is favoured, in the fruitfulness of the seasons; in the general prosperity of all classes, trades and occupations, and in the continuance of a mild, free, and efficient government; and humbly to beseech Him, that He will be pleased to restore the salubrity of our climate; that He will continue His blessing to the President and Government of the United States, and preserve the nation in the enjoyment of freedom, order and peace; that He will enable the people to discern their true interests, and preserve them from the influence of foreign intrigue and domestic faction; that He will be pleased to bestow His blessing on all schools and seminaries of learning, and cause them to be the means of promoting morals, good order, and religion; and that He will impress the people with a sense of all their moral and social obligations, give them true repentance for their sins, enable them to correct and amend their lives, and avert from them the calamities of pestilence, discord and war.

IT IS FURTHER VOTED AND RESOLVED, That it be recommended to the people to abstain, on that day, from all servile labour, and unbecoming recreation.—That his Excellency the Governor be requested to issue his Proclamation accordingly:—and that this resolution be printed and published in all the newspapers printed in this State.

S. CAROLINA.—hon. *Thomas Lowndes and Thomas Sumpter.
*New Members.

By letters and papers received in town from Charleston, (S. C.) it is ascertained that the federalists have carried their election for that city by a great majority, for member of Congress, State Senator and 15 Representatives.—From the returns from other districts, it is no longer doubted that Mr. Adams will have all the votes in South-Carolina: all accounts agree in stating that he was never so popular there.

For the NEWPORT MERCURY.

AS the period for choosing ELECTORS OF PRESIDENT AND VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES is near at hand, it becomes proper that the attention of the Freemen of this State should be drawn to the consideration of the characters best fitted for that important trust. It is admitted on all sides, that a MOMENTOUS CRISIS exists in our national affairs, and that the united efforts of every friend to his country are necessary, to preserve inviolate our free CONSTITUTION, and the blessings of PEACE and GOOD ORDER, which we have confessedly derived from it;

Actuated by these considerations, we take the liberty of nominating for ELECTORS of President and Vice-President,

GEORGE CHAMPLIN, Esq;

of Newport,

EDWARD MANTON, Esq;

of Johnston,

OLIVER DAVIS, Esq;

of Hopkinton, and

WILLIAM GREENE, Esq;

of Warwick, (late Governor.)

They are gentlemen of known respectability, approved character, and tried integrity, who are deserving of, and we trust will receive, the unanimous suffrages of their Fellow-Citizens.

COMMUNICATIONS.

To the FREEMEN of the State of Rhode Island.

Undeniable facts were published in the last Mercury, calculated to throw the odium of the land-tax on that party to which belongs; the party of which Mr. Jefferson has long been the head. A further perusal of the debates of Congress will prove, that it was not only the object, but the favourite object of that party. After all the outcries raised in this State against that tax, it has become a subject of astonishment to many landholders, to observe that those who have been the most active in exciting this clamour, are now supporting a ticket of Electors, composed of two merchants, and two other persons very little known to the freemen of this State, and who (for aught we know) may or may not be landholders.—This selection of candidates ought to convince us, that those who have been the most open-mouth'd in exciting the clamour, are not the most desirous of removing the grievance.—They are anxious to place Mr. Jefferson in the Executive chair from motive of ambition and party rage, to accomplish their great and undeviating object of war with any foreign power excepting France.—At this moment!—At this important crisis!—the joyful news is received, that through the perseverance of our great and good President, an accommodation has been effected with France, and a TREATY actually signed.—You may therefore speedily expect a retrenchment of the public expenditure; a repeal of ALL unnecessary taxes a market for our produce; an extended commerce; the return of stability to our government, and confidence to the people; and the fair prospect should be blazed by the election of Jefferson, and the necessary consequence of his philosophy and politics—war with Great-Britain.—Under the auspices of the immortal Washington, and the GREAT and GOOD ADAMS, we have hitherto triumphed over internal disorder and escaped foreign war.—Let us no now hazard the rich reward of all our toil and perseverance, at the moment when we are about to reap it, BY A FATAL MISTAKE.—Let us therefore on Wednesday the 19th inst. laying aside all other considerations than the GOOD OF OUR COUNTRY, support the ticket of ELECTORS composed of the following TRUE AMERICANS:

GEORGE CHAMPLIN, Esq;

EDWARD MANTON, Esq;

OLIVER DAVIS, Esq; and

WILLIAM GREENE, Esq;

In such men you may safely repose the important trust with the most perfect confidence that it will not be abused.

A considerable number of peaceable citizens, have lately been very anxious to know what has been done by the administration of the federal government, within the last twelve months, to excite in such a very extraordinary degree the cholera of their opponents.—The voice of the discontented has not been heard in this State till within six months, and yet the indignation with which they seem ready to burst, is all levelled at measures which were taken and acquiesced in two or three years since!—Such is the blindness, the inconsistency, and the folly of party! Such is "the madness of many, for the gain of a few."—The army is disbanded; the Alien Act has expired; the Sedition Act will expire in a few months: Peace is made with France, and there is no prospect that the direct-tax will be renewed: and yet the rage of party is not appeased; and never will be, till the Constitution and liberties of this country are laid low; when, from the very dregs of anarchy, there will arise another BUONAPARTE, and another Despotism!

Incontrovertible Facts:—

Whereby the fitness of Thomas Jefferson, for President of the United States, may be estimated:—

1. Mr. Jefferson was an opposer of the Federal Constitution, and recommended that it should be rejected by the four last States.

By the ship Swift, Capt. Rogers in 31 days from Liverpool arrived here on Friday last, we have received London Papers to the 4th of October from which are extracted the following articles of

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

L O N D O N, Oct. 2.
From the Paris papers.
ACTS OF GOVERNMENT.
Decree of the 2d Vendémiaire, (25th Sept.)
Bonaparte, first Consul of the Republic, decrees as follows:
Art. 2. The general of division Clarke is nominated commandant extraordinary of Luneville, and of the whole department of La Meurthe.
Art. 2. He shall correspond directly as the above commandant with the government.
Art. 3. He shall take such measures as shall enable the telegraphs to correspond with Luneville.
Art. 4. General Clarke shall repair immediately to Luneville, and take every measure necessary to the holding of a Congress.
Art. 5. The minister of war, is charged with the execution of the present decree.
the first Consul,
(Signed) BUONAPARTE.
the Secretary of State,
(Signed) H. B. MARET.

Paris Papers of one day later date, arrived last night by a French flag of truce, which brought also dispatches for Government. We understand that the British flag of truce, which arrived at Dover on Tuesday night, did not bring the answer of the Chief Consul. It was brought by the vessel which arrived yesterday morning.

With the demands made by France, the conditions upon which our Ministers have offered to grant an Armistice, and the reply returned by the French Government, we are unacquainted. The answer has not yet transpired.

The Paris Papers contains no article of any importance, except the decree by which Gen. Clarke is directed to repair to Luneville, to make the necessary preparations for the Congress.

One Hamburg Mail, which was due on Sunday, arrived this morning. It could not bring any intelligence of so late a date, as that contained in the Paris Papers. The Emperor, on the day after his arrival at head-quarters, issued General Orders, informing the troops, that the chief command had been conferred on the Archduke John. He repeats his assertion, that he has used every endeavour to procure peace, and he declares, that if hostilities recommence, he will employ all the means in his power, to protect his hereditary states and people.

The Archduke John is to keep the command till the Archduke Charles's health is sufficiently re-established.

Field-Marshal Colloredo is appointed President of the Aulic Council of War at Vienna; and General Mack: Affector.

October 4.
It is whispered, that the First Consul has demanded as a foundation of a naval armistice, and as the price of our admission to the grand diplomatic display which is to take place at Luneville, and at the same time to serve as a proof of the sincerity of Ministers, that this country shall put the French Republic in possession of twenty British ships of the line!!!

BAVARIA, Sept. 22.
On the 8th, the whole Austrian army was in motion towards Haag and Wasserburg, and his Imperial Majesty had resolved to remove on the 9th his head-quarters to Haag, and offer battle to the enemy, immediately on the expiration of the armistice; when in the night, between the 8th and 9th inst. a courier arrived from Gen. Moreau, who brought his acceptance of the proffered prolongation of the armistice.

P A R I S, Sept. 18.
We know not whether the British Cabinet will accept the conditions which the French Government has wisely proposed to it and we doubt whether it be proper to desire, that envoys from England should assist at the congress. But after the formidable position of our army, and the deplorable state in which the Emperor sees his own army, we should be much disappointed if the result of the congress was not a speedy pacification between the French Republic and his Imperial Majesty.

They write from Wesel, that the changes and movements which were to have taken place in the Prussian army of observation, destined to make the line of neutrality respected are still subject to fresh orders which they expect from Berlin, and which are speedily looked for. At any rate, it is certain that none of the arrangements which assisted at the grand manoeuvres in Silesia, before the King, have put themselves in motion for Westphalia, as several Journals have announced. Every thing is perfectly quiet in the Prussian Army, which point out more than ever the pacific intentions of the young Monarch.

B O S T O N, Nov. 7.
FROM LISBON.
Captain Young, arrived from Lisbon, in 21 days, acquaints us, That the Portuguese still entertain strong apprehensions of an invasion by the French through Spain. A large Spanish army was upon the frontiers of Portugal, which it was feared would co-operate; but the Spaniards have been lately laid under an obligation by their neighbours who have protected several valuable Spanish vessels to Lisbon;—That the British expedition sent under Sir J. Pakeney were at Gibraltar; and it was supposed would proceed to Portugal if that nation should require assistance.

Capt. Ellery, from Malaga, and who passed Cape St. Vincent, only 19 days before his arrival, informs, that a large English fleet from Gibraltar passed up the Straights about the time he came out.

We have just received a Halifax paper of Nov. 1, which contains the following articles brought by the British Packet, 19 days from Falmouth.

for the express purpose of compelling the remaining States to alter it.

2d. Mr. Jefferson, while Secretary of State under Gen. Washington, openly patronsed the National Gazette (a paper which vindicated Genet, against General Washington) by appointing the editor of that paper, to a sinecure office in the Department of State.

3. Mr. Jefferson, while Secretary of State, held with Genet a "language confidential and different from the official language held in his public communications;" and was thereupon charged by Genet with "having made him (Genet) believe that he was his friend, after having initiated him into mysteries, which had inflamed his hatred against all those who aspire to absolute power."

4. Mr. Jefferson is the favourite and the favourite of a foreign nation; and is therefore the last man, to whom his fellow-citizens should intrust the administration of the Government.

5th. While Governor of Virginia, in the year '81, being informed that the British troops had effected a landing at a place in that State, more than one hundred miles, distant from the seat of government, he precipitately abandoned his post and shortly after resigned his office.

6th. At an early period of our revolutionary war, being a member of Congress, he was nominated in that body for the important and perilous appointment of minister to France, but dreading the danger that was at that time to be apprehended from British cruisers, he declined it, and thus proved that he preferred his own personal safety to the preservation of the rights and liberties of a whole people. Mr. Adams was then nominated for the same appointment and accepted without hesitation the dangerous mission.

Friends and Citizens,

The day approaches when you will have an opportunity of exercising one of your most important rights that of appointing electors of President and Vice-President—this right it is to be hoped every freeman will in fact exercise—obtain the best possible information; do not object to hearing the opinion of a friend, neighbour, or even of an employer.—It is said of the immortal Washington, that he consulted much, pondered much, resolved slowly—but, my friends, from whence did he draw his conclusions—from the inmost recesses of his heart; from whence he drove every intruder, and was governed only by his judgment and conscience;—and although, my fellow-citizens, we are not endowed with the many talents of this inestimable man; yet we,
one and all, have an important part to act,
admitting we possess only half a talent.—

There are eight candidates held up, and have assented to the nomination; for aught
I know, they are all men of good moral characters, friends of the constitution, and lovers of good government.—Those of you that are perfectly satisfied with the administration of Mr. Adams, and think that no alteration can be made for the better, will give your suffrages for the Ticket with Mr.
Chaplin at the head; the object of those gentlemen no doubt will be to continue Mr.
Adams, or introduce Mr. Pinkney; which is their object, is yet problematical.—Those of you, my fellow citizens, who think otherwise, and are not perfectly satisfied with the conduct of the present administration, will give your vote for the ticket with Mr. Taber at the head; those gentlemen will undoubtedly give their votes for Mr. Jefferson—whose political abilities are exceeded by no one; for proof of which you need only peruse his able defence of the measures of government, against the charges exhibited by Hammond and Genet; but it is said he is an Infidel, a Deist, an Atheist;—assertions without proof or evidence;—but evidence strong can be brought to prove the contrary.—I would call your attention to his juvenile days, his youthful days; you will find him in his native State beating down the walls of oppression, which had been built by his ancestors; and upon the ruins of superstition, erecting a beautiful temple, dedicated to the first of Christian virtues, Charity, without which Christianity is a name, an empty sound.—An odious oppressive Law existed, at that time, against the people called Quakers; disfranchising any of that profession, and indeed depriving them of existence. This did not correspond with his philanthropic mind, and all his powers were exerted to have it expunged, which was done.—Now my friends it we are convinced that his abilities are as great as any other man, his integrity and philanthropy unquestioned, where can be the danger of hazarding his administration
—the Constitution must be his guide.

An arrival at Philadelphia in 18 days from England, fully authenticates the fact that for the express purpose of compelling the remaining States to alter it.

2d. Mr. Jefferson, while Secretary of State under Gen. Washington, openly patronised the National Gazette (a paper which vindicated Genet, against General Washington) by appointing the editor of that paper, to a sinecure office in the Department of State.

3. Mr. Jefferson, while Secretary of State, held with Genet a "language confidential and different from the official language held in his public communications;" and was thereupon charged by Genet with "having made him (Genet) believe that he was his friend, after having initiated him into mysteries, which had inflamed his hatred against all those who aspire to absolute power."

4. Mr. Jefferson is the favourite and the favourite of a foreign nation; and is therefore the last man, to whom his fellow-citizens should intrust the administration of the Government.

5th. While Governor of Virginia, in the year '81, being informed that the British troops had effected a landing at a place in that State, more than one hundred miles distant from the seat of government, he precipitately abandoned his post and shortly after resigned his office.

6th. At an early period of our revolutionary war, being a member of Congress, he was nominated in that body for the important and perilous appointment of minister to France, but dreading the danger that was at that time to be apprehended from British cruifers, he declined it, and thus proved that he preferred his own personal safety to the preservation of the rights and liberties of a whole people. Mr. Adams was then nominated for the same appointment and accepted without hesitation the dangerous mission.

Friends and Citizens,

The day approaches when you will have an opportunity of exercising one of your most important rights that of appointing electors of President and Vice-President—this right it is to be hoped every freeman will in fact exercise—obtain the best possible information; do not object to hearing the opinion of a friend, neighbour, or even of an employer—It is said of the immortal Washington, that he consulted much, pondered much, resolved slowly—but, my friends, from whence did he draw his conclusions—from the inmost recesses of his heart; from whence he drove every intruder, and was governed only by his judgment and conscience;—and although, my fellow-citizens, we are not endowed with the many talents of this inestimable man; yet we, one and all, have an important part to act, admitting we possess only half a talent.

There are eight candidates held up, and have assented to the nomination; for aught I know, they are all men of good moral characters, friends of the constitution, and lovers of good government.—Those of you that are perfectly satisfied with the administration of Mr. Adams, and think that no alteration can be made for the better, will give your suffrages for the Ticket with Mr. Champlin at the head; the object of those gentlemen no doubt will be to continue Mr. Adams, or introduce Mr. Pinkney; which is their object, is yet problematical.—Those of you, my fellow citizens, who think otherwise, and are not perfectly satisfied with the conduct of the present administration, will give your vote for the ticket with Mr. Taber at the head; those gentlemen will undoubtedly give their votes for Mr. Jefferson—whose political abilities are exceeded by no one; for proof of which you need only peruse his able defence of the measures of government, against the charges exhibited by Hammond and Genet; but it is said he is an Infidel, a Deist, an Atheist;—assertions without proof or evidence;—but evidence strong can be brought to prove the contrary.—I would call your attention to his juvenile days, his youthful days; you will find him in his native State, beating down the walls of oppression, which had been built by his ancestors; and upon the ruins of superstition, erecting a beautiful temple, dedicated to the first of Christian virtues, Charity, without which Christianity is a name, an empty sound.—An odious oppressive Law existed, at that time, against the people called Quakers; disfranchising any of that profession, and indeed depriving them of existence. This did not correspond with his philanthropic mind, and all his powers were exerted to have it expunged, which was done.—Now my friends if we are convinced that his abilities are as great as any other man, his integrity and philanthropy unquestioned, where can be the danger of hazarding his administration—the Constitution must be his guide.

An arrival at Philadelphia in 18 days from England, fully authenticates the fact that peace is concluded between France and America.

[The following from CUNNINGHAM, a distinguished Pastoral Poet, though it present a face of Satire against the mutual perjury of Lovers, will suggest topics of consolation to many a disappointed Amandus and Amanda.]

PALEMON in the hawthorn bower,
With fond impatience lay;
He counted every anxious hour
That stretch'd the tedious day,
The rosy dawn Pastora nam'd
And vow'd that she'd be kind
But, ah, the setting Sun proclaim'd
That women's vows are wind.

The fickle sex the boy defy'd,
And swore in terms profane,
That beauty in her greatest pride
Might sue to him in vain.
When Delia from the neighbouring glade
Appear'd in all her charms
Each angry vow Palemon made
Was lost in Delia's arms.

The Lovers had not long reclin'd
Before Pastora came;
Inconstancy, the cry'd, I find
In every heart's the same.
For young Alexis sigh'd and prest'd
With such bewitching power
I quite forgot the wishing guest
That waited in the bower.

The following from CUNNINGHAM, a distinguished Pastoral Poet, though it present a face of Satire against the mutual perjury of Lovers, will suggest topics of consolation to many a disappointed Amandus and Amanda.]

PALEMOM in the hawthorn bower,
With fond impatience lay;
He counted every anxious hour
That stretch'd the tedious day,
The rosy dawn Pastora nam'd
And vow'd that she'd be kind
But, ah, the setting Sun proclaim'd
That women's vows are wind.

The fickle sex the boy defy'd,
And swore in terms profane,
That beauty in her greatest pride
Might sue to him in vain.
When Delia from the neighbouring glade
Appear'd in all her charms
Each angry vow Palemon made
Was lost in Delia's arms.

The Lovers had not long reclin'd
Before Pastora came;
Inconstancy, she cry'd, I find
In every heart's the same,
For young Alexis sigh'd and press'd
With such bewitching power
I quite forgot the wishing guest
That waited in the bower.

New-Shoreham, Oct. 20, 1800.

JOHN C. SCOTT

Takes this method of informing his friend
and the public in general,

THAT he has removed from his late place of residence, to the House lately occupied by Mrs. CATHARINE MALBONE, a few doors below Banister's wharf—where he has for Sale, a general assortment of English GOODS, among which are the following articles:

English, India, and Italian silks and lute-strings; fatts and pelongs; kid and silk gloves; dimities and humhums; ribbons and silk shawls; camel's hair ditto; Irish linens; Britannias; mens' beaver hats;
Navy coat and vest buttons; United States
Artillery buttons; dirks and hangers;
badges; bohea, hylon, gunpowder, and fouchong Tea, per chest or less quantity; Jamaica and Havana Sugar, by the barrel.

He has also just received from Liverpool,
a fashionable assortment of ladies cupola bonnets & hats; childrens' straw bonnets;
ladies Morocco and kid shoes.

He returns his thanks to his former friends, and requests a continuance of their custom. Oct. 6, 1800.
